THE CHILDREN'S CORNER

By Mrs. N. K. Wood

My Dear Little Girls:

I am going to tell you more about Little Polly, who asked the Lord to send her a pair of nice shoes, and He heard her prayer and answered her. You remember on that very same day. Well Polly had no little sister to play with her and she used to bring out her big family of dolls and play school, and Polly was their teacher. She had a great many dolls and some of them were very pretty and lady-like, some were comical and one beautiful Chinese doll would entertain the school with wonderful Chinese stories. Polly was the interpreter of course; that doll was named Wing Lang Tee, and she was her parents' only child for a long while. They did not love her very much, and she was very lonely, but one day her granda told her she had a little brother, and they were all so proud of him and made such a fuss over him that poor little sister was put in the background, but by and by some missionaries came into her life with such wonderful news, then Polly would stop and say, "Wing Lang Lee, you may sit down and tell the rest of your story next time. We will let Ruth Cleveland recite." Then Ruth began. "I was born in the White House, when my father was president of the United States of America. Well that's enough for this time. Tommy Tucker, wake up, for it's time to recite your lesson. Don't know it? Well I'll have to punish you. Now stand back in the corner behind 'Black Mammy'; she's made on a quart bottle and you can lean on her. She won't let you fall, nor go to sleep, either, for she is the head nurse. I'll read to all of you a story and you must remember it, and be able to answer all of my questions about it.

"Nof I've finished you may have recess. Don't get your clothes soiled, and come in when I ring the bell." This school admitted a new pupil. It was a real live Maitese kitte, and it was so playful that Polly gave a long vacation and turned her attention to "Blue Belle." The dollies missed their long drives in the doll buggy that Uncle Dick gave Polly, and they had cause to feel a bit jealous of Blue Belle, for Melinda's best dress was found to be a perfect fit for her, and one day Polly put it on her and buttoned it all up so nicely and tried Annie's plush bonnet on her little head and the pink bows looked too cute for anything. Then Polly said, "Blue Belle I must take you out for a ride" so she tucked her frizzy down in the wonderful buggy and started down the street. Blue Belle behaved very nicely. Her little paws panned out of her sleeves and her nice little tail held her skirts up when she walked. So Polly turned her attention to the doll that could talk to her. When she wanted Polly she would say, "Mew," and that was better than talking to dolls that couldn't even "mew" only a "krick" a little when she pinched them; at last Blue Belle got two large for her dress, and she didn't like to be pulled about, so she ran away; then Polly said: "Well 5 dolls are the nicest after all, for they mind what you tell them to do, and they never outgrow their clothes. I guess school will open again."

REFINEMENTS ADDED TO FORD ENCLOSED CARS

Many added conveniences and refinements are to be seen in the Ford enclosed cars now being displayed by Schultz, Peckham & Schultz, the local authorized Ford dealers.

The interior of both the coupe and the sedan is now finished in an attractive shade of walnut brown broadcloth, and the seats are upholstered with a similar material, threaded with chalked ebony-stripe. Heavy floor rugs give an added touch of comfort. Lifts, of a special design, minimize the effort of raising or lowering the windows. Door bumpers insure a tighter fitting, and new door grips, both inside and out, add to the rider's convenience.

The demand for Ford enclosed cars has been unusually high during the past two months. Although production has been speeded up in the Ford factory at Detroit, sales continue to exceed the output, making it necessary for purchasers in many parts of the country to wait for their cars. Local dealers say this is the reason they have been urging customers to place their orders as early as possible.

USING THE TOP END.

A wood pecker pecks Away millions of specks Of saw dust while building his hut.

He works like a nigger To make the hole bigger; He's sore if his cutter won't cut. He don't bother with plans Bother with plans Of cheap artisans, But there's this that can rightfully be said:

The whole excavation, Has this explanation, He built it by using his head! The Crescent.
